5.0 LENNY

The iconic Debian Project has long been a Linux leader. As the world's biggest and most popular community distro, Debian is built by a worldwide army of hundreds of developers. The focus is on freedom: Debian is 100% free software, with no proprietary applications or drivers. And Debian is stable. The long release cycles and thorough testing process are reasons why this volunteer distro serves as a source for dozens of other Linux projects.

What's New
Debian 5.0 Lenny comes with Linux kernel 2.6.24. The Gnome 2.22 desktop rolls out several useful new features, such as native Flash support and automatic configuration of hotplug printers. Also included with Debian 5.0 are X.org 7.3, OpenOffice 2.4, GIMP 2.4, and Inkscape 0.46, as well as the Iceweasel web browser (Debian's all free version of Firefox).

Package Management
Debian's popular Apt package system provides a simple and reliable structure for installing and managing software. You can install packages easily from the command line, or you can use one of the many GUI-based tools designed for managing Debian packages. Thousands of software packages are available for Debian systems.

Try It!
This double-sided DVD will help you get started with Debian on a 32-bit or 64-bit Intel-equivalent system. Slip the disk into your drive, and you'll find an easy installer with improved hardware detection. The highly regarded Debian package system will help you keep current and find the applications you need in Debian's vast repository. We hope you enjoy this month's Debian Lenny DVD.
