The best Web sites for Linux users
THE RIGHT PAGES

SuperLinux Encyclopedia
http://slencyclopedia.berlios.de/

Every subject needs an exhaustive source of information and as far as Linux is concerned, this is possibly as close as you're going to get.

EchelonWatch
http://www.aclu.org/echelonwatch/

This site is designed to encourage public discussion of this potential threat to civil liberties and to urge the governments of the world to protect our rights.

Why Python is best http://www.python.org/doc/Comparisons.html

Python is often compared to other programming languages. Here's a sampling of what's been written, by people biased in various directions...

Linux Planet
http://www.linuxplanet.com/linuxplanet/

Linux Planet is an excellent online Linux magazine full of useful content, ranging from the latest news stories and opinions to tutorial guides.

Happy Penguin
http://happypenguin.org/

The Linux game tome. Want the latest game? Then find out the news with a huge database of Linux games.

Linux Games
http://www.linuxgames.com/

Not quite as big as Happy Penguin but the news is always current with good insider knowledge.

Pretty Poly Editor
http://prettypoly.sourceforge.net/

PPE is a portable Open Source 3D modeller, file viewer and converter. It is targetted at 3D games development and supports OpenGL and WYSIWYG functionality.

Linux Powered
http://www.linuxpowered.com/
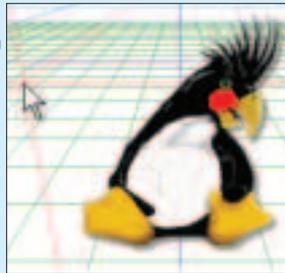

A portal site for knowledge with special interest areas such as Linux Security and Networking.

User-Mode Linux Kernel
http://user-mode-linux.sourceforge.net/

User-Mode Linux is a safe, secure way of running Linux versions and Linux processes. Run buggy software, experiment with new Linux kernels or distributions, and poke around in the internals of Linux, all without risking your main Linux setup.

Gimp User Group
http://gug.sunsite.dk/

The largest collection of Gimp arts and tutorials anywhere on the Internet! Right now it contains 1,392 pictures, 220 textures and 18 Script-Fu scripts.
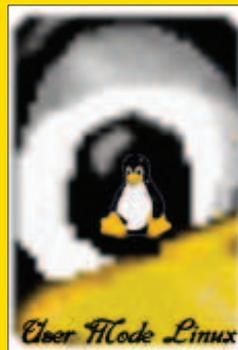

Janet Roebuck offers up the latest Web sites to spark our interest in the Linux Magazine office