This month's subscription DVD has a couple of games for you to try. Actually, we found mirrors of games hard, if not impossible, to find. We decided to do the job properly, and have put together a compilation that will hopefully save you time and effort searching. We have managed to obtain over 500 games for you to run under Linux.

Many of the games you may be familiar with, such as Tetris and the amazing flight simulator – FlightGear. Some games you may never have heard of, such as Wakkabox or Quack. The collection is large enough that everyone should be able to find a game that will become their favorite. The games fall into many categories ranging from classic arcade style action games to puzzles that require more thought than joystick manipulation.

With over 500 games it is hard to appreciate the broad range of this collection. In the panel at the side, we have listed just one tenth of the games.

We encourage you to explore the DVD when you have free moments to find the gems of games that are perfect for you.

Morphix Games

On the DVD, you will find the latest copy of the Morphix Live Games CD. This is a CD image that will autorun to give you a working Linux system without touching your hard disk.

Morphix is a modular distribution, (you put it in your DVD-Rom drive, you boot, and it works... no hard disk-installation necessary, will not affect your data). Also, installing Morphix on a hard disk is a breeze, if you want to. Just click the icon on the desktop, or select the installer from the morphix/babytux submenu.
